We have some talented golfers in our congregation. But I'm not one of them. I'll be the first to admit to you that I'm no good at golf. Terrible, in fact. Appalling. Awful. Abysmal. And it doesn't matter how often I visit the driving range to practice. Instead of an improved swing, I only end up leaving with nothing more than a sore back and a bruised ego.

In all honesty, I like watching golf more than playing it. Some years ago, during a homebound visit with an elderly sister in Christ, the topic of golf came up for some odd reason. Her response was memorable. She told me that she found golf dreadfully boring. However, she would turn it on TV because she loved the well-groomed landscape, the green grass and the bright sunshine, all of which she had in short supply in her high-rise retirement apartment. According to this fellow believer, the scenery was the only worthwhile thing about golf.

Last April, like millions of others, I tuned in to the famous Masters Tournament, which takes place in Augusta, Georgia. The leaderboard was full of well-known names and it looked to be an exciting event. But you know what I loved even more than the picturesque course or the intense competition or great athleticism? I loved the crowd. Yes, the people.

For whatever reason, I never noticed it in the past. Here is, in my opinion, the very best thing about golf: the people watching on the course clap for every single person. No matter what. Tiger Woods could slice a ball into the trees. Francesco Molinari could inadvertently drop a shot (or two) right into the water. Bryson DeChambeau could make a remarkable hole-in-one. And what happened after each of those shots? The crowd clapped for them. As far as I could tell, I never watched a single shot where the crowd didn't applaud. No matter how great or how terrible.

Perhaps it's a certain culture of civility or respect within the sport of golf. Or maybe the crowd has caught on to a certain way of living, whose example all of us could follow. The reality is, we don't really need to know where the ball landed or how successful the person was at what they set out to do. We just know that they've tried their best. They've succeeded in taking a risk. And that's worth applauding.

I think the apostle Paul would've been a fan of golf. He lived his life in a similar way. Under the Holy Spirit's inspiration, he wrote numerous letters to churches and believers near and far. Encouraging them. Supporting them. Cheering them on. And these weren't people who were all soundly successful. Some of them were failing miserably. But Paul shared the good news of redemption and the hope of eternal life in Christ and brought great support and encouragement to them.

What if we imagined ourselves walking through each day as though we were on a golf course? And we'd cheer on whoever was in front of us. Not because of what they accomplished, but simply because of who they are. A person whom God created and dearly loves. A person for whom Jesus bled and died and rose from the dead in order to save them. Imagine what this world would be like if we were all each other's best cheerleaders. All this contagious encouraging and applauding. Why, it almost makes me want to learn to play golf! :-)

Director of Children's Ministry

—Soap for Hope—

A big thank you from the children in children's ministry at Ascension for bringing soap for our Soap for Hope giving project! The soap will be distributed to those in need in our community and our church family. We thank God for soap to keep our bodies clean and to remove dirt and germs. We thank God for Jesus who washes us clean from our sins with His blood—which soap cannot do. Praise Him for Jesus, and praise Him for soap! And again, we thank you for helping.

—Treats for Tots—

Our supply of oat cereal snacks for the children's worship Treats for Tots is once again very low. You are invited to purchase a box of plain Cheerios (please only this brand and no flavors) and bring it to the church office. Thank you very much for helping those with a little hungry tummy, during worship time, get filled!

—Interpretative Liturgical Dance—

Worship dance will begin practice Sunday, October 6, 11:45 a.m.-1:00 p.m. Please speak with Kim Bestian as soon as possible if your daughter is interested! We will be dancing for the Family Christmas Worship service, December 15.

—Fall Fun Trick-or-Treat—

Saturday, October 26, 10:00-10:30 a.m. (or so) children's ministry will host this 4th annual fellowship activity for families and their friends. A pumpkin devotional will be the highlight! There will be safe indoor trick-or-treating, so children should bring their treat bags! Children and adults are invited to wear a costume. (Please no devil or witch costumes.) Family picture taking and so much more! Mark your calendars now and sign up if you would like to hand out goodies to the children from behind classroom doors. We would like to have 12 older folks help hand out the treats, allowing for parents to go around with their youngsters and fellowship with other families! Watch for sign-up sheets for participants and volunteers. Come, join the FUN!

—Christmas—

The Family Christmas Worship Service will be Sunday, December 15. The 2019 theme is:

O CHRISTMAS TREE – You Point the Way to Jesus!

Part of the Sunday School hour each Sunday leading up to that service will be used to prepare the children for that worship service. Be sure your children attend every Sunday in October, November, and December, so that they will not miss out being in pictures and learning their parts. Most of all, to grow in their relationship with their Savior and their brothers and sisters in Christ!

—Kid's Corner—

The church library has wonderful Christian books and other resources just waiting for you and your children to check them out! The library is open and available on Sunday mornings and during the weekdays, Tuesday through Friday 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. Come see what is waiting for you!

Operation Christmas Child Collection Starts October 6!

Ascension's Operation Christmas Child collection dates are October 6-27. Every shoebox gift delivered is a tangible expression of God's amazing love. We hope that you will participate! This is your family's opportunity to help spread the story of Jesus' love to children around the world. Shoeboxes can be picked up at the front entrance. Instructions and gift suggestions are included in each box. If you have questions, please direct them to Mariann Porter (309-1850) or Melanie Gallagher (861-7875).

Stewardship Minute—Humble Stewards

As stewards, we are the recipients and caretakers of God's goodness, love, mercy, and grace. Stewards are managers of God's creation. We acknowledge God as the owner; therefore, we are to act not as owners but as managers because our lives and resources are simply on loan from Him.

The book of Daniel gives an account of a man who failed to recognize God as Creator and provider and exalted himself. King Nebuchadnezzar, walking on the roof of "his" royal palace, surveying "his" kingdom, was overcome by pride as he announced, "Is not this the great Babylon I have built as the royal residence; by my mighty power and for the glory of my majesty" (Daniel 4:30)? He thought he was asking a rhetorical question, but God condemned him to live like an animal as a consequence of his pride.

Pride is destructive. It destroys gratitude to God for all His kindness to us. It destroys our desire and ability to serve others. It destroys contentment for it feeds our competitive nature so that we are not satisfied with just being wealthy or intelligent, but we want to be wealthier and more intelligent than anyone else.

Pride has no place in the life of a servant: First Peter 5:6 reads, "Humble yourselves, therefore under God's mighty hand that He may lift you up in due time." It is God alone Who can exalt us (Psalm 75:7). If Christ Himself, God's only begotten Son; humbled Himself: should we not follow His example and humble ourselves? Because Christ humbled Himself, God exalted Him (Philippians 2:9).

David, the shepherd-king, put our situation in proper perspective: "When I consider Your heavens, the work of Your fingers, the moon and the stars, which You have set in place, what is man that You are mindful of him, the son of man that You care/or him" (Psalm 8:3-4)? The inference is that we are insignificant, yet David goes on to remind us of what we can be proud: "You made [us] ruler over the works of Your hands; You put everything under [our] feet."

Humility allows us to accept our smallness and God's goodness. In the words of Martin Luther, humility is the decision to "let God be God." We are stewards through humility. We are to honor Him with what we have, what we are, and what He will make of us.

Nobody But Jesus

What does it take to make a name for yourself? Ever wonder what that even means? You already have a name, one that was given to you by your parents at your birth and re-affirmed at your baptism. So why are people so obsessed with making a name for themselves?

In a world where names carry legacies, whether good or bad, it is important to understand what a name means. Especially for those of us who are followers of Christ. I'm sure you've looked up the meaning behind your name, or even asked your parents why they picked the name they gave you, but there's more to my saying "understand what a name means".

We call ourselves Christian. What does this mean? To be a Christian is to be a follower of Christ. What does the name of Jesus Christ mean, then? The name Jesus literally translates to God with us ... and at the time He walked this earth, fully human and fully God, He was indeed with us. After His ascension, He continued to be with us through the gift of the Holy Spirit. Even today, when it seems like the world has forgotten God and what He did through Jesus Christ—brought us salvation on the cross and victory in the resurrection—He continues to be in those who believe and follow Him.

As we go about our days, from class to class, attending practice of sports, music and theater, we are given opportunities to show Jesus Christ through our words and actions. Do you take those opportunities? When you encounter someone being bullied or see someone struggling, in need of a friend, do you make the name of Jesus Christ shine through you?

These are not easy questions to answer—to be honest, they're not easy decisions to make. Our natural inclination is to look out for ourselves, in whatever manner that may be. To be honest, letting our old sinful self out in those kinds of situations is the easiest route to take, but we are not that old sinful person anymore.

"Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, the new creation has come: The old has gone, the new is here!"

~2 Corinthians 5:17

It's a struggle for us to drown our sinful self and let Jesus shine through, so those who see us see Him. That's why we seek to know Him personally—after all, if you wanted to resemble someone you admired, wouldn't you pay attention to what they wear, how they speak and walk, and how they act?

"Dear friend, do not imitate what is evil but what is good. Anyone who does what is good is from God. Anyone who does what is evil has not seen God."

John 1:11

Therefore, as you grow in your faith, your name will disappear into the name of Jesus—you will shine His love for those who need Him so brightly, they will see nobody but Jesus ... and you know what?

If the world forgets your name, but remembers Jesus, then you've left behind a legacy of being a blood-bought faithful member of God's family ... in the end, that's all that truly matters.

We received the following letter from Christ the King church in Waxahachie, TX expressing their heartfelt sympathy after the terrible shootings in El Paso. They wanted us to know they were covering us in prayer and they also sent a box of cards and crafts to lift our spirits. It was such a gift of love and we sent this letter (right) in response.

Dear Rev. Brian Bestain and Ascension Lutheran Church,

As we heard the news of the shootings in El Paso our hearts broke for our brothers and sisters in your city. We went to the Lord and covered you all in prayer. We prayed for God's supernatural peace and comfort to sustain you in this difficult time. While we know that prayer is powerful, we wanted to do something more tangible for y'all.

Our theme for our Rally Day this year was "Let Your Light Shine" based on Matthew 5:16 "In the same way, let your light shine before others, that they may see your good deeds and glorify your Father in heaven." We wanted to shine God's light of love to y'all during this dark and difficult time. We took some time that day to write cards and make some encouraging crafts for you all. We pray that you can use them to minister to those who are hurting in your church, school and community. We pray that through these simple cards and crafts that we can bring a smile to someone's face and remind them that they are loved by God and loved by their fellow Texans.

If there is anything else our church can do for you, please let us know. We will continue to keep you in our thoughts and prayers.

God's peace be with you all!

Rev. Jared Raebel

Allison Daniels, DCE.

September 11, 2019

Dear Rev. Jared Raebel, Allison Daniels, and God's family at Christ the King Lutheran Church,

With great joy we received your special box covered with hearts and hands! Inside we found your voices of compassion, grace, and God's love. Thank you for "shining the Light of Jesus" with our congregation at Ascension Lutheran in El Paso, Texas! You truly followed through on your theme for Rally Day. Our 2019 Rally Day theme was: "With Hearts and Hands and Voices—The Body of Christ!" For that reason, your delivery box covered with hearts and hands came with such surprise and amazement.

The horrific shooting event at Walmart on August 3, 2019 was indeed tragic, and fear gripped our safe city. We could share many heart-breaking stories from this incident. It has deeply impacted all of us in our community, church, and preschool. However, God, in His grace, allowed it to open many doors for the sharing of the gospel message. We praise and thank Him for all He has done for us. During the adult Sunday morning Bible class, teen Bible class, and children's Sunday School, God's people here at Ascension gathered together and opened your wonderful box. The messages and little gifts from you brought joyous smiles to many faces. Please know that the warmth of your love was felt by your fellow Texans!

Thank you for keeping us in your prayers! Thank you for being shining lights for Jesus, our Savior! Enclosed are our "voices" from thankful "hearts" and "hands" in prayer back to you! May our Almighty God bless you and your ministry in His name, always! Keep letting your light shine for Him!

Your friends in Christ Jesus,

- Oct. 15 – the Pre-K students will take a field trip to the corn maze – a favorite activity of the children.
- Oct. 18 – students will be wheeling around the parking lot on their bikes as they enjoy the fall weather and the fun of riding! And the evening hours will have plenty of excitement as the school hosts the Fall Fest from 5:30 p.m. – 7:30 p.m. This family event is one of the few fundraisers scheduled throughout the year. Tickets may be purchased in the preschool office. Everyone is invited to attend.

In other news—there is still space available in our 3-year-old

Is Abortion Allowed in Cases of Rape or Incest?

By Dr. Jean Garton

A BRIEF STUDY OF 2 KINGS 14:6

The Child of Rape

Place two newborn babies side by side on a table. Call together medical specialists, scientific professionals, social engineers, and leading theologians. Have technicians measure the size of the babies, examine their bodies, observe their behavior, draw blood, and perform a variety of reaction tests. Then let the experts tell us which baby is the product of rape. They can't!

The child of rape, as every child, is a work of art created by God. Isaiah 64:8 speaks of God as the potter who fashions clay into something beautiful. In Psalm 139, the comparison is even more exact that it is God Himself who weaves our bodies together in our mother's womb.

The Godless Act of Rape

Rape, long considered a sexual act, is now recognized as an act of violence, control, and rage. Those emotions are all exhibited in the rape of Tamar by her half-brother, Amnon, and the ravished Tamar rightly calls the rape an "outrageous thing" (2 Samuel 13:12).

The outrage of society today against such an "outrageous thing" is to demand vengeance. Ironically, it's often the innocent child who, through abortion, receives a sentence of death. Abortion may serve the emotional needs of a society repelled by rape, but it doesn't serve the needs of the two human beings most affected—the mother and her unborn child.

Abortion vs. Love

Abortion, as a supposed "solution" is usually offered out of pity for the violated victim. Pity, of course, is a good thing in that it is the feeling through which a person shares in the suffering and wounded condition of another. Yet love is greater than pity! Pity sees the raped woman in her desolation and shame. Love sees her desolation and shame but also sees the woman in relation to the God who redeemed her through the sacrifice of His Son, Jesus. Love sees the value God places on unborn life and knows that He has a plan for both mother and child.

In 2 Kings 14:6, we are reminded of the Lord's command:

"Fathers shall not be put to death because of their children, nor shall children be put to death because of their fathers."

To impose capital punishment, in the form of abortion, on the innocent child is to do what God expressly forbids. It is to repeat the "godlessness" inherent in rape. Unlike the rape in which the woman is an innocent victim, in abortion she becomes complicit in an act that destroys an innocent, defenseless child.

The fact that the mother was in no way responsible for the act that led to the child's conception does not remove the child's right to life. The truly compassionate, loving solution is one that is both non-violent and life-giving. Positive, sensitive, and caring counseling that encourages the nurture and protection of the other innocent victim of rape or incest—the unborn child—can be part of the healing process.

Incest

Incest involves a complex family situation that will not be cured or stopped by abortion. Abortion promises silence and makes it possible for the incest to continue. The more effective response to pregnancies resulting from incest is to deal with the environment in which the girl is being victimized. Aborting the girl's baby and then returning her to the family situation that caused the problem in the first place is no solution.

Years after incest has stopped, victimized women report lingering pain and scars, but many cling to the promise in Psalm 147:3 that God heals the brokenhearted and bandages their wounds. Victims of rape and incest often struggle for a long time with self-esteem, but many claim that what has helped them with the sense of degradation is entering into a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. "He loves me just the way I am"

Lutherans For Life

Jesus said, "Let the little children come to me and do not hinder them, for to such belongs the kingdom of heaven."

Matthew 19:14

said one victim. "I don't have to be perfect or have to earn His love!" said another. "I am absolutely complete in Christ" wrote a third.

When Love Begins

If the value of human life is to have any meaning, then its value cannot depend on, or be diminished by, the circumstances that brought about that new human life. God maps out the tapestry of life for each child, whether a child is the product of love and marriage, or the product of rape and incest. It's not a question of when life begins. It is a question of when love begins, and God's love for each child begins in His mind and heart before they were even conceived.

Note: A good resource on the issue of rape and incest is Victims and Victors (David C. Reardon, Julie Maldmaa, and Amy Sobie, eds. [Springfield, IL: Acorn Books, 2000]). This is a book where those who have experienced sexual assault speak out about their pregnancies, abortions, and children.
